MAHJONG – DEDICATED FOR A DECADE

Media Release – for immediate release

March 2018

Staying at the top of your game for a decade is tough work in any business but none more so than hospitality. Whilst others have come and gone, Mahjong, one of Fitzroy Street's favourites, is celebrating a decade of dedication, bringing their take on Chinese cuisine to St Kilda.

Owner Max Tsang was immersed in the game of Mahjong as a youngster in China, perched on his grandfather's knee as the older man skillfully turned the tiles and placed wagers on the outcomes. When Max came to Australia to open his own restaurant, the name came to him immediately. With a nod to his family and heritage, Max's first restaurant has been delighting locals and food lovers from further afield since 2008. An eclectic mix of regional specialties, Max's quirky sense of humour shines through in every corner of this contemporary Chinese eatery.

Think Kung Fu chicken or Szechuan grandma tofu, fun takes on classic dishes. Noodles from Han X'ian, spices from Szechuan and the familiar flavours of Cantonese cuisine, including an extensive range of dim sum, are available all day long, seven days a week. Or drop in, prop at the bar and graze on Xiao Chi (bits and pieces) whilst drinking in the passing parade on St Kilda's iconic strip.

Or if you can't decide, let Max and his team feed you with their 'Bring it On' degustation for only $59 per person or take on the yum cha challenge with Mahjong's 'All You Can Eat' for less than $40 per head on Tuesday or Friday evenings or during the day on Saturdays and Sundays. Book early because it's popular!

Delivering top quality, consistently delicious food is one thing however, it's the dedication to warm, welcoming and professional hospitality that sets Mahjong apart. And clearly, it's working with a decade of dedication something to celebrate.

Mahjong is celebrating its birthday with a range of private and public events across the year, whilst looking forward to the next decade. Their unique and contemporary approach is putting Chinese cuisine where it should be – back at the forefront of Melbourne’s vibrant food scene.

Get social with Mahjong to be part of their birthday celebrations. Head to www.mahjong.com.au or follow on Instagram @mahjong_restaurant or Facebook @mahjongrestaurant.stkilda.

Mahjong is located at 165 Fitzroy Street, St Kilda.
